IBA Consultants continues to grow

January 2007

Officials from IBA Consultants, a Boca Raton, Fla.-based building envelope consulting firm, announced in a Jan. 11 release that the company opened an office in New York City.

The New York location marks the third opening in the last two years, with the Seattle office opening in 2006 and Las Vegas office in 2005, according to the release. The company operates other locations in Miami and Tampa Bay, Fla.

The New York office will better serve the Northeast market, according to the release.

The New York office opening also marks the launch of the company's forensic division to handle leak investigations and window replacement jobs, according to the release.

Jon Snyder, IBA regional vice president, will head the new office.
