

IBA Launches New Company, IBA Consultants West

IBA Consultants, which is headquartered in Miami, has announced it has launched a new company called IBA Consultants West, which will be based in Las Vegas and owned and operated by Mark Baker.

"As statistics show, the real estate market here [in Las Vegas] is booming to keep up with the demands for high-rise housing, entertainment facilities and office space," said Baker. "Since we provided many consulting and engineering services to South Florida during its amazing decade of re-development, we have grown our Western business by providing our unique expertise about boom markets as it relates to building envelopes."

The new company will have a staff of ten professionals and will offer the same inspection, testing and engineering services as the Southeast location.
