IBA CONSULTANTS ANNOUNCES NEW ADMINISTRATOR FOR NEW YORK CITY OFFICE

Tyree Meredith Promoted to Regional Administrative Manager

New York City – IBA Consultants (IBA), the foremost building envelope consulting firm in the country with headquarters in Miami, Florida, is announcing the promotion of Tyree Meredith to the position of regional administrative manager of its New York City office. Tyree has been with IBA since 2018, initially as an inspector in New York, with additional assignments in Tampa, Florida. In 2023, he was promoted to a management position, responsible for business development and client relations in the New York office.

In his new position, Tyree will be taking over administrative responsibilities once held by Ricardo Augustin who voluntarily resigned to pursue other opportunities. As the new regional administrator, providing operational oversight and administrative management of the NYC regional office. Technical services will continue to be performed by David Becher, Mauricio Arguedo, Alejandro Villegas and Myle Edwards, a highly experienced team with a combined tenure of over 52 years with IBA.

“Since coming to IBA six years ago, Tyree has proven to be an extraordinary asset in project management and client relations, not only for our New York and Northeast US projects, but for IBA Consultants as a whole,” said Mark Baker, president and CEO of IBA Consultants. “His attention to detail and his focus on business development will help expand our capacity to meet the growth needs of this dynamic region.”

For more than 25 years, IBA’s business approach has been to staff regional offices with the most highly-qualified technical and management teams in the industry, providing specialized service to specific markets throughout the country. In addition to the headquarters in New York City, other regional offices include Miami, Tampa, Las Vegas, Seattle, and Park City, Utah.
